The 1952 Convention Will Be Held at Purdue

Theta Chapter to-be Host to KDR Delegates

The 1952 Grand Convention will be held in West Lafayette, Indiana with Theta Chapter as the host. Preliminary plans have been made to house the 50 or more delegates who will attend the sessions, to be held in the chapter house. A stimulating program has been set up for the undergraduates, including a dance on Friday evening, June 20, the grand banquet on Saturday evening, June 21, and an outing at Shafer Lake on Sunday, June 22.

Two of the past three Conventions were held in the Midwest, the 1946 gathering being held at Columbus, Ohio, the home of Kappa Chapter, and the 1948 one in Chicago as the guests of the famous Chicago Alumni Association. The 1950 Convention was held in Lambda Chapter house in Berkeley, California, the first time that a KAP National Convention had ever been held on the West Coast. All three set records of attendance, which is expected to be equalled by the 1952 Convention.

The program will open on Thursday, June 19, with registration and an informal smoker that evening. Many of the chapter delegations are planning to arrive by motor, and they hope to check in some time late on Thursday. Business sessions will begin on Friday morning, June 20 and continue through Saturday afternoon. Several interesting topics of special interest to the chapters are slated for discussion at the business sessions.

Undergraduate chairman will be Frank Kik, Theta '53, who will be in charge of all arrangements for housing delegates and planning meals and entertainment. Two alumni are also taking an active part in arranging the details of the 1952 Convention. Edward C. Tudor, Eta '41, of Indianapolis, has accepted the responsibility of the financial chairman, and E. W. McIlvaine, Theta '23, also of Indianapolis, is general chairman of the Convention. The latter has served as a most ardent president of the Indiana Alumni Association.

Further details of the Convention will be released as plans are completed. Preliminary reservations may be made by contacting either Frank Kik, at Theta Chapter house, or writing directly to Hugh Penman at 443 Grove Street, Rahway, N.J. Alumni planning to attend any sessions and staying over for meals or social affairs should make reservations as soon as possible so that space and food can be provided. Alumni within driving distance may find it profitable to make reservations for the grand banquet on Saturday evening, to which the ladies of the KAP family are invited as guests of honor.

The 1952 Convention shapes up as one of the outstanding in the 47-year history of KAP. Alumni and actives alike may well remember it as a milestone in the history of our great little fraternity.

Ed Yancavage, I '52, was Bucknell's representative to the Boulder City Convention of Tau Beta Pi, honorary engineering society. As president of the Bucknell chapter of TBN he was sent by plane, expenses paid, to be their delegate at the national convention of this engineering prototype of Phi Beta Kappa.

This is the second year straight that a member of Kappa Delta Rho has served as president of TBN, Don Betty having had the honor last year.

Carol Mitchell, Sweetheart of KAP for 1951 has accepted an invitation to attend the banquet of the 1952 Convention on Saturday evening, June 21. As guest of honor she will be presented to the entire fraternity in the form of delegates from all chapters.

Psi Colony A Campus Leader In Service Projects

Members of Psi Colony of KAP at Lycoming College have set a pattern in public relations that might be profitably followed by every chapter of every fraternity on every campus. Last fall as a group they appeared at the Williamsport center for the donation of blood for the Red Cross program and helped to swell the donations for that day to a record 198 pints in one day. The resulting write-ups gave full credit to the group, and pictures aided in placing KAP in the limelight. Again, through the efforts of Psi Colony, the 1951 Community Chest Drive was brought to the Lycoming College campus for the first time. By sponsoring the drive on the campus, they added prestige not only to their college but also to their fraternity.

Donations of blood were lagging when the Blood Bank project was decided upon by the colony. The need of blood for wounded servicemen in Korea was the urge that gave incentive to their decision, and to a man they trooped into the Blood Bank and lined up for duty. In doing so they helped to set a new record for the Northeastern Pennsylvania region with 215 donors on hand between 11 a.m. and 5 p.m. Every member was justifiably proud of his part in the project.

Members who gave blood were: Paul Sabin, Scott Wilhelm, Kenneth Erickson, Douglas McWilliams, David Rodriguez, Merle Davis, Gilbert Love, Earl Mensch, Jay Stenger, Bradley Colls, and Roger Ludlum.

Another project of special interest to Lycoming College and the community in which it is situated was the beginning of a Community Chest Drive, in conjunction with the Williamsport drive, on the campus at Lycoming. Members of Psi Colony sponsored the drive and gave of their time and effort to the undertaking on campus. Boxes for contributions were placed about the college in such strategic spots as the Snack Bar, women's day room and the men's day room. Students were urged to make whatever contribution they could, thereby relieving the drive of the pressure that many times accompanies such campaigns. Publicity was used to acquaint students with the campaign and the need for their help. Psi Colony did an outstanding job of bringing an American institution to the Lycoming campus, and of helping in numerous ways to see that it was successful.

Two members also participated in the celebration of Dr. Long's 30 years of service to the college. Douglas McWilliams represented the student body, at a special chapel service commemorating the event, when he presented a special gift to Another project, less spectacular than giving blood, was that assigned to the pledges at Psi Colony. The Civil War Monument in downtown Williamsport was dingy with winter grime and summer fumes. As a reward for pledging KAP every pledgee was allowed (?) to brighten up the view in front of city hall by venting some of his pent-up energy with the aid of ladders and scrub brushes. The results were pleasing even to the tired pledgees, who received so many compliments on the grandeur of their accomplishment that similar assignments are on the schedule for the next group of pledges. Once again the North was saved for the Rebels and HELP WEEK had become a part of Psi Colony.

ELECTED VICE-PRESIDENT

Zeta Chapter feels honored to report that John C. Reed, alumnus of this chapter from the class of 1928, and a prominent businessman of Louisville, Kentucky, has been elected vice-president of research by the board of directors of the American Radiator and Standard Sanitary Corporation.

For the past five years he has been serving as the manager of the research department. He is now in charge of the new research laboratory being constructed in Louisville by the corporation. The laboratory will combine the company's heating and plumbing research projects now located in various cities throughout the country. Brother Reed maintains offices in Pittsburgh and New York.

Zeta Plays Santa Claus To Underprivileged Children

The temperature was down near zero; but, the Zeta Chapter house was warm for a Christmas party for underprivileged children right before last Christmas vacation began. Seventeen children made up the honored guests for a gala afternoon. The children went home happy, and the Zeta boys and their dates who had entertained them were just as happy.

Don Carbaugh did most of the prepping for the affair. He contacted parents, got lists of sizes and kinds of clothing preferred, and even got preferences in toys. When the day for the party arrived clothing and other gifts were cached away in the closets, to be brought out when Santa Claus George Riggs arrived for the great moment. Presents were useful in most cases, for many of the guests came shivering in inadequate clothes. Coats, shoes, boots, sweaters, dresses, and other clothing were all pulled out of Santa's bag to be distributed to the ecstatic youngsters, who seemed to be having the time of their young lives. It was a great afternoon, for each child received a toy, too; something to take home and play with, and remember the boys of KAP.

The girls had a hand in the party, too, for they provided the feminine angle for the affair. Most of the KAP's brought their dates to the party and before long everyone was on his knees running trains or doing something to amuse the young guests. An Abbott and Costello (plug) movie was shown to top off the entertainment for the afternoon, but the children also remember the food that followed, and the cordial and happy gang of boys and their dates who gave them the time of their lives in the Kappa Delta Rho house at Penn State last Christmas. Truly it was a great experience for the guests and their hosts.

NIC Examines Fraternity Public Relations

Air Corps Chaplain Leads Section Meeting; KDR Editor Made President of Editors

Representatives of Kappa Delta Rho were among the hundreds of delegates of the National Interfraternity Conference who paid tribute to Phi Beta Kappa last December when the 175th anniversary of the founding of Phi Beta Kappa was celebrated at the College of William and Mary, Williamsburg, Va. Combining with the NIC were the National Panhellenic Conference, the Professional Interfraternity Conference and the Professional Panhellenic Conference, making the birthday tribute the most representative gathering of Greek-letter leaders in history.

Kappa Delta Rho delegates were Bernhard Priemer, member of the Board of Directors and past-treasurer, Hugh Penman, executive-secretary, and Don Wolfe, editor. The latter took office as president of the College Fraternity Editor's Association at a special dinner for secretaries and editors on Friday evening, November 30. Leader of one of the panel discussions was KAP C. Irving Carpenter, Iota '27, chaplain of the U.S. Air Corps.

Tribute was paid during the session to A. Ray Warnock, chairman of the Conference whose death in his sleep on November 4 brought grief to the Greek-letter world. After retiring as dean of men at Penn State College, he continued to take an active part in the educational world by serving the community at State College, Beta Theta Pi, his fraternity, and all fraternities through his influence and activities in the NIC. Charles E. Pledger, Jr., vice-chairman of the Conference conducted the session with such effectiveness that he was elected chairman for the coming year.

LEADS DISCUSSION

One of the most-spirited discussions of the session resulted from a panel on moral and spiritual values presided over by Brigadier-general C. Irving Carpenter, Iota '27, and chief chaplain of the Air Corps.

Chaplain Carpenter drew from his many years of experience with military men, using a series of pamphlets prepared for military personnel, to show how faith in God is used to give the men stability in their fight for democracy. He pointed out that many of the techniques used by the military could very easily be adapted by the fraternity.

Members of various fraternities attending the panel pointed out that much of the indecision of the modern student could be attributed to a lack of a positive belief. Campus rifts were cited, the result of anti-discrimination pressure, and caution was urged because one of the Communist tricks is to set class against class. The consensus of opinion seemed to hold to the fact that selection was not un-Christian; that fraternities should set up a positive program of religious activities, thereby dealing Communism the worst blow that the fraternity could deal.

PUBLIC RELATIONS

Another question in the minds of most delegates was that of public relations for fraternities. An enlightening report, followed by a question and answer period was given to the entire Conference by Clifton W. Phalen, Phi Gamma Delta, assisted by Richard Powell, assistant to the president of N. W. Ayer & Son; John W. Vann, worthy grand chief of Alpha Tau Omega; and Clyde S. Johnson, now executive-secretary of Phi Kappa Sigma and well-known to Lambda Chapter for his numerous visits there. He was a speaker at the 1950 Convention in Berkeley, using chapter-house discussions as his topic.

Facts garnered by the NIC committee on Public Relations showed that clippings taken from various newspapers over a ten-year period showed that 60% were unfavorable to fraternities while only 40% were favorable. The length of those unfavorable also surpassed that of the favorable.

Another eye-opener was the report of a survey of newspaper editors made by the committee. A surprisingly high number of the editors took time out to answer a rather complicated questionnaire, most of them admitting that fraternities seldom gave them a chance to write something favorable. They readily admitted that the unfavorable was a better builder of circulation, some of them even suggesting that fraternities should pay more attention to a positive program that would bring favorable publicity.

Hell Week was cited as the one part of fraternity life bringing the most publicity, mostly bad. The program on Hell Week on the campus of Indiana University was discussed as an example of the proper way to handle the situation. The Wittenberg incident resulting in tragedy was cited as the kind of Hell Week aftermath that could happen on many campuses where the problem has not been solved.

The panel recommended a national program to give direction and continuity to public relations activities. They recommended as a minimum (1) the hiring of a public relations man and a secretary, (2) the publication of a bulletin to sell chapters the idea of good public relations, (3) instruction in methods of obtaining good publicity and public relations, and (4) a national clearing house for fraternity news to newspapers, magazines, radio and television.

The remarks of the panel were summed up by the chairman who divided the program into three parts: first, we have to be sure we do a good job, particularly, among other things, in the field of scholarship, good citizenship and good moral conduct; second, it is most important that we improve our techniques insofar as handling press relations is concerned (and I use the word press very broadly); and third, that we at least ought to give serious consideration to some kind of a national effort.

HYPOCRISY

Anybody can accuse anybody else of hypocrisy. All of us find our ideals and our actions just enough off the beam so that anyone could accuse us of something or other. Sometimes our circumstances make us 'bear those ills we have rather than fly to those we know not of.' It is difficult to tell the boss that he is insisting on certain results from us while we know that he is hedging to hold his own job.

No greater or lesser place to investigate for signs of hypocrisy exists than an educational institution. One might examine his own and find many things. A member of the football team is in good standing even though we know he couldn't pass an honest examination from a second-rate highschool. A college student is handed a diploma on graduation day even though we know that his moral conduct wouldn't pass the scrutiny of a good elementary school. A student joins a fraternity and then promptly forgets the high oath he has just taken. HYPOCRISY?

Your editor does not accuse a university of hypocrisy because it has to choose 300 students from 1200 applications. It has to set up certain standards of selection, just as a fraternity should set up certain standards among those that it expects to carry its banners. It is hypocrisy to do otherwise.

REAL SERVICE

Kappa Delta Rho has always fostered participation in college activities. That loyalty to the college holds up under the strain of graduate days when making a living and raising a family also become important is borne out by the record of KDR alumni who are still active on their college campuses.

It is with much satisfaction that we see KDR's participating in fund drives and on councils and boards of trustees. A loyalty to college as well as to fraternity must be with such members, for they are among the most ardent supporters of their chapters.

KDR is proud that it has raised men who put their college along with their fraternity. The two are inseparable, and that is the way we would have it. These men are living up to the highest ideals for which Kappa Delta Rho stands.

ARE YOU FOR?

One might make the observation that we should confine our editorial remarks to collegiate affairs such as scholarship, athletics, social affairs, housing, Hell Week, etc. While such may be apropos from time to time we in Kappa Delta Rho have over 5,000 alumni who are actively engaged in civic affairs, business ventures, and just plain work.

That a sterner view of these latter should be taken, as well as an active part in the future of education, cannot be disputed. As alumni we have an obligation to uphold some principles that will make of this world a much less confused place in which to live. We should express ourselves in no uncertain terms about politics, international affairs, morals and ethics, and religion. We should make up our minds about what we believe and then practice it. Belief is a hollow shell without action.

We started out in Kappa Delta Rho with Honor as our guiding star. It is time to evaluate that HONOR again, to ascertain that it can be used in business, politics, civic affairs, morals, ethics, and even religion. We all talk about being AGAINST Communism. It is time that we came out FOR something, and nothing could be better to start with than HONOR. What couldn't the United States and the world do with a little HONOR right now!

GOOD WORK, PSI!

The pattern set by Psi Colony in public relations is doubly gratifying to at least two KDR's. Both Ferd Ensinger, former executive-secretary, and Don Wolfe, your editor, have worked tirelessly to sell good public relations to the chapters of KDR. Both are members of a five-man committee of the NIC to cooperate with the American Red Cross Blood Bank campaign, currently busy trying to bring the Blood Bank to the attention of every student in the country. Both are able to stick out their chests a little farther when they brag about Psi Colony; both are able to boast that KDR does things too. Both are also sure, too, that every interested alumnus will swell with pride in the knowledge that KDR is doing something for the community and the country.

IN ANSWER

The following letter is a reply to an editorial in the last issue of The Quill and Scroll concerning publicity. We are pleased to include it with this month's editorials.

Very recently we received our copies of the Winter 1951 edition of The Quill and Scroll. It contains very interesting and welcomed reading. However, we at Delta were all very surprised and shocked to read a certain article under 'The Editor's Corner'. This article, entitled 'On Public Relations' concerns the appearance of the picture of one of the brothers, during his pledge period, on the front page of the December 5, 1951 issue of The Post-Standard of Syracuse, N.Y. We all strongly feel that the article unduly and unjustly criticises Delta. It appears that the article was printed before the facts behind the case were fully checked.

The brother in the picture, who was at that time a pledge, was given the duty of getting his picture on the front page of The Post-Standard as part of his assignments during the 'Hell

Week' preceding his initiation. This was assigned with the house in full knowledge. Before proceeding to Syracuse, the pledge conferred with the Director of Public Relations of Colgate University, and it was he who gave suggestions as to how to go about fulfilling the assignment. The type of picture finally used was the result of discussion between the pledge and the editor of the paper.

It seems that if the National Office of KAP felt such publicity 'off color', we should have been notified or questioned about this before any such article appeared in The Quill and Scroll. Adverse publicity is certainly the last thing which Delta would seek. A mature look at our history and policy would certainly indicate this.

I am sincerely sorry to have to write a letter of this sort, however, we feel that the National's thoughts should be clarified to us.

Fraternally yours,
Herbert A. Dietzel

(Editor's Note: Kappa Delta Rho National does not sanction or sponsor Hell Week in any form. The attitude of the National, too, has always been expressed in THE QUILL AND SCROLL, THE Sentry, and through other bulletins, all of which are available to officers and members of individual chapters.)

AN APOLOGY

We apologize for not including all current material in this issue. The summer issue will be off the presses soon, however, and all current material will be included. Watch for the next issue soon.

NIC EXAMINES

A resolution was passed by the NIC to have a full report of the panel printed in booklet form and made available to member fraternities of the NIC at cost. As soon as this report is received it will be made available to chapters and alumni of Kappa Delta Rho.

Much of a constructive nature was undertaken at this, the 43rd annual session of the NIC in Old Point Comfort, Va. Your editor counted it a great privilege to be present at the 175th anniversary of the founding of Phi Beta Kappa and to be one of the delegates to this, the greatest gathering of Greek-letter leaders in history.
