This Is The Loyalty Fund Issue

The Loyalty Fund appeal for 1956 is being made in this issue of THE QUILL AND SCROLL. We sincerely hope that you, as a loyal KDR, will give it the same kind consideration that you gave it when you received a separate letter.

Our aim this year is to increase the number of contributors. The amount you give is not as important as that you give, something. Many alumni are just making homes for themselves and cannot give large sums to their college or their fraternity. That you give is important be it a dime or a dollar or a hundred.

We want to acknowledge contributions to the 1956 Loyalty Fund from the following alumni who sent in their contributions even before the drive got underway:

Sam P. Davis, Alpha '21
Harold S. Porter, Beta '57
Joseph P. Porter, Beta '17

KDR Well Represented at Interfraternity Conference

Kappa Delta Rho was represented in many phases of NIC work when seven members attended the regular yearly Conference in St. Louis, Missouri, December 2 and 3, 1955. It was certainly one of the most varied groups of KDR's attending an NIC yearly affair, if not one of the largest also.

Attending as delegates to the Conference were National President O. L. Doud, Gordon Eldredge, O. D. Roberts, Don Wolfe and Charlie Hobbs. Brothers Doud and Eldredge represented the Board of Directors while Brother Wolfe became the official delegate to the House of Delegates in the absence of Ferd Ensinger, unable to attend because of business. Don also represented KDR at meetings of the fraternity editors and secretaries. O. D. Roberts, National Scholarship Commissioner, represented KDR at all meeting relating to fraternity scholarship. Charlie Hobbs, of St. Louis and an alumnus of Theta Chapter, represented the local alumni at the meetings and the grand banquet Saturday evening.

Other KDR's attending the Conference were Howard Neuberg, assistant dean of men in charge of fraternity affairs at the University of Illinois and Ray Andrew, consul of Epsilon Chapter at Franklin College and official representative of the local IFC at the Conference. KDR was indeed represented in many fields at the 1955 Conference.

CONFERENCE HIGHLIGHTS

The 1955 Conference was productive of more inter-fraternal thinking and cooperation. More and more it is becoming apparent that fraternities must cooperate in preserving the aims and purposes for which they were founded. It is also apparent, from action of the Conference, that a closer working program is necessary to the growth of fraternities. Toward this end preliminary plans were advanced to make of the NIC a clearing house for useful publications and public relations.

SIX-POINT PROGRAM

Six points were implemented to make such a program useful to the constituent member fraternities. These are now being emphasized as obligations that fraternities have to fulfill to achieve their higher purposes.

1. Better relations between colleges and fraternities.
2. Expansion of fraternity service to college and community.
3. Improvement of fraternity manners and morals.
4. Better public relations and better publicity to exploit them.
5. Back to fraternity fundamentals; a return to ideals.
6. Harmony, cooperation and mutual trust among our member fraternities—a unity of purpose.

BETTER RELATIONS

Members of the NIC, says the chairman, have brought better understanding between the college and the fraternity by frank discussions, by the dissemination of resolutions adopted by the Conference, by effective publicity releases and by round table discussions with educators.

The need for better relations on all levels was pointed out by numerous delegates to the Conference. Included in this was undergraduate as well as graduate, for many of the actives join a fraternity without fully realizing that the organization is primarily an adjunct of an educational institution and as such must meet its obligations to the college and to the members.

FRATERNITY SERVICE

Fraternities are gradually realizing, too, that in addition to being educational institutions they are also responsible for some service to the college and community.

By turning Hell Week into Help Week and doing other outstanding service and numerous civic and philanthropic endeavors, fraternities have demonstrated that they can serve along with the rest of the community in which they live.

Scholarship was also recognized as coming under this category. It was pointed out that in most instances a slow but steady advance was being made and that most fraternities had elected or appointed a national officer to give advice along this line.

MANNERS AND MORALS

Actives and alumni are being made aware of the need for concerted action and awareness of the need for improvement in this area. Fraternities must retain a position of dignity, honor and respect in the college community and also in the eyes of the general public, and to do this they must be composed of responsible individuals. Fraternity officers, local officers and alumni can help with patient but persistent educating of a chapter whose morals and manners should befit its position in a university.

Undergraduates at the Conference used as a basis for discussion along this area a paper entitled "A Good Reputation Is Our Most Important Asset."

PUBLIC RELATIONS

A real public relations program has always been hampered because the NIC did not have the facilities to implement the program. Now, a belated but rather brilliant start has been made by having prominent fraternity men tell what fraternity has meant to them. These are not only being circulated among fraternity men but among educators and outsiders.

Distinguished educators are being sought to write objective articles on the accomplishments of fraternities. Every fraternity man in the country can make a substantial contribution to the bettering of public relations. With more help a terrific job could be done along this line.

BACK TO THE ALTARS

The four conferences that make up the fraternity system have adopted the slogan "Back to Fundamentals." They all feel that the aims and purposes are worthy, ideals beyond reproach; sometimes, however, the fraternity becomes so embroiled in material phases that it neglects the real inspiration for the formation of the group and the heritage that it possesses.

The torch of fraternity idealism must be kept burning brightly if our fraternal orders are to fulfill their destiny in the field of higher education. Without the proper idealism they can succumb to false concepts and alien ideologies which can destroy the American way of life.

UNITY OF PURPOSE

More and more, fraternities are achieving a spirit of concern for each other; a feeling that if one fails, all fail. Therefore, no one must fail. Friendly rivalry is still encouraged, differences of opinion promoted in a spirit of mutual trust and oneness of purpose.

Secretaries and editors meet in a workshop each summer to discuss mutual fraternity problems and let down their hair in mutual understanding. More and more, fraternities are realizing that one group cannot exist without the other; it is therefore necessary to agree on fundamental purpose. Inter-fraternity meetings do much to make for better understanding among the member groups, the meeting in St. Louis did much toward this goal.

Undergraduates Discuss Public Relations Problems

Meat for discussion and action was presented in the undergraduate conference of the NIC at St. Louis under the topic "A Good Reputation Is Our Most Important Asset."

Highlights of the outline for discussion follow so that alumni may digest the thinking of the undergraduate fraternity men of today.

"The American college fraternity is an expression of our American freedoms of thought, expression, religion and assembly.

It is rooted in the democratic traditions and ideals of our republic.

It exists by public acquiescence.

Fraternities could not have developed and flourished as they have unless they had created a reasonable degree of public understanding, respect and esteem. This means that we do have a good reputation. Proof of this is that now there are over 3200 chapters of national fraternities and several hundred local fraternities on college and university campuses in the United States and Canada.

It is their job to live harmoniously with the colleges and to perform their functions on the campuses in such a way as to be a credit to themselves, the fraternity system and the college.

The vast majority of chapters meet that obligation in splendid fashion. The exceptions are what cause us trouble, bring bad publicity and cast reflections on the system's reputation. Also they furnish our critics with the ammunition to attack us again.

Of course we do not agree with our critics that merely because some chapters step out of line and at times bring discredit to the fraternity name that the whole system should be condemned. But we have to recognize our responsibility to furnish the kind of leadership necessary to put and keep our whole house in order if we are to continue to enjoy the privileges we have been extended. We can do that, too.

In the attack now being made on us we have furnished our opponents with most of the tools they are using to discredit us.

1. Questionable use of intoxicating beverages in fraternity houses and at fraternity functions.
2. A slippage of our scholastic grades — usually referred to as poor scholarship.
3. Hell Week. (Interfraternity councils have not assumed responsibility for eliminating sadistic practices associated with Hell Week or pre-initiation activities.)

We need only to accept these basic facts to realize the necessity for a program to do two things:

1. To clean up our own house.
2. To bring about the return of the complete understanding, respect, and esteem we have enjoyed these many years.

A public relations program is nothing more than doing the job

COOPERATIVE PUBLIC RELATIONS

As part of the 100th anniversary of the establishment of Penn State, Zeta Chapter teamed up with Alpha Gamma Delta sorority in the gala parade witnessed by thousands in the downtown section of State College, Pa., last spring. Showing Penn State's part in the Civil War, the float was one of the most attractive in the parade and celebration.

and then seeing that one gets credit for it. It is not synonymous with a publicity program. If fraternity relations with various segments of the public (college deans, faculty, business establishments, neighbors in the community, alumni, parents of boys in high school, the press, etc.) are not good there is no publicity gimmick that will change the attitude and thinking of the public. If relationships are good there is no need to worry about the publicity.

This is how we can go about it:

First, we must realize that the job has to be done at the campus level by the active chapters.

Each IFC must appraise its own situation and inaugurate a program that will do the job on its own campus.

Leadership of the highest quality is required.

There is absolute necessity for unity of action.

WE MUST:

Pool our best brains.

Put forth our best efforts.

Expect it to cause some sacrifices.

Forget our own petty jealousies and rivalries.

Work closely with the college administrators who are associated with us in fraternity work.

This is what we can do on

1. Questionable use of intoxicating beverages in fraternity houses and at fraternity functions.

Have it clearly understood that no one is trying to bring about the return of prohibition.

Educate our members in the proper and reasonable control of the problem.

Take positive action to see to it that chapters comply with college regulations where colleges have restrictions against drinking in fraternity houses or at fraternity functions.

Assume responsibility for our members where colleges have such regulations but make no effort to enforce them unless and until an unhappy incident occurs.

More than ever assume responsibility for the conduct of members on campuses where there are no restrictions.

Keep all social functions and social visits in line with good morals, good conduct, and good taste.

Act, and act fast, when something gets out of line.

Do not wait for the college or any other agency to assume our obligations.

2. A slippage of our scholastic grades — usually referred to as poor scholarship:

Make a complete study of this problem to determine just where we should be, then see how we stand.

Study the programs of individual fraternities, then adopt one that includes:

Gathering of material on how to study.

Follow-up of delinquents.

Adoption of minimum requirements for initiation.

The possibility of penalties such as restrictions on social and intramural participation.

Publicity for the work you do.

3. Hell Week.

Completely eliminate it.

Draw up a code of acceptable pre-initiation practices that will confine all such activities to chapter houses. Adopt some project such as Help Week or Service Week. Many campuses have done just that. This has met with favorable approval. Such projects offer opportunity for concerted action. Don't overlook the opportunity to work with sororities on such activities. They're way ahead of us.

Put on a Greek Week. A vast amount of material is available.

While you are bringing the fraternity system to the attention of everyone, take the time to bring the fundamentals, ideals and teachings of fraternities to our own members. Put the spotlight on the rituals and give them the time they deserve.

If we could do all these things relations would automatically be good. "A Good Reputation Is Our Most Important Asset."

Let's Get Acquainted

By GEORGE E. SHAW,

National Historian, Kappa Delta Rho

The 61 American College Fraternities comprising the National Interfraternity Conference have nearly 2,000,000 alumni and undergraduate members and some 4,000 active chapters in institutions of college rank. I doubt if any other group of like size could be found of greater importance to the country or who are more desirous of being of service to their fellowmen. It is my belief that a better organization of these alumni in the larger communities would be helpful in many ways in solving some of our present day problems, particularly those affecting our colleges and their graduates. This opinion is based on nearly fifty years experience in various capacities in my own fraternity.

The privately endowed and supported college today must depend for a large part of its revenues upon contributions from its alumni and upon grants from corporations, foundations, etc. The interest and influence of alumni in making such personal gifts and in securing such corporate grants is important. Even in a small fraternity like Kappa Delta Rho, with only 7,000 alumni, I find that we have successful men in nearly every profession and important representatives in many of the large business organizations. Their first loyalty is naturally to their own Alma Mater. However, by reason of contacts with brothers from other chapters they would be more responsive to any worthwhile appeal from such another institution.

Insofar as state supported colleges are concerned, a better organization of national fraternity alumni would perhaps be more effective in pointing out the detrimental effect of action such as has recently been taken by the State University of New York in barring from various of its units all fraternity chapters having a national affiliation.

For the undergraduate, the alumni of his chapter have done in a material way by providing houses for most of the 4,000 chapters through alumni real estate corporations. The responsibility for operating these facilities usually falls on the local alumni in conjunction with the college. With the anticipated increased enrollment in the next ten years there will be a much greater need for such facilities. A better organization of our far flung alumni would be helpful to the college and the local alumni corporations.

For the young graduate just starting out on a career, acquaintance with other successful men from his own or other chapters may prove of value. I can testify that it is frequently of mutual benefit. The older alumnus would benefit from an organization of his peers. The purpose of a fraternity is not to provide leads for the sale of insurance or securities. However, to have friends, actual or potential, in every city in the country can be helpful in a legitimate way. This is particularly true where there is some sort of local group that permits one to meet his brethren in an informal way and to establish social contacts without delay in an otherwise strange locality.

If the fraternity is to expand, I would say that new chapters formed in any section of the country without organized local alumni support will have a difficult period ahead of them. Such support can only come from the alumni of a pre-existing local or from the organized alumni of our other chapters. The sponsorship of a new chapter in a college where needed by the undergraduates and welcomed by the administration is a worthy project for an alumni group.

In conclusion, may I say that I believe it would be a definite benefit to these groups and institutions if in every fair sized city each National Fraternity maintained an alumni organization with a president and secretary who would keep a list of all local alumni with their business or professional connection and both their home and business address. Periodical meetings of an inexpensive nature would promote better acquaintance. The organization and operation of such a group takes a little time and is a thankless task but well worth while. To any of you alumni who contemplate retirement and are looking for a hobby, I most heartily recommend this field of activity. It will keep you young—and busy.

NEW ADVISER

John F. Schrodt, Jr. has been elected faculty adviser of Epsilon Chapter at Franklin College. A native of Bloomington, Indiana, Adviser Schrodt graduated from Indiana University where he is now working for his doctorate. He is also executive secretary of the Indiana High School Press Association.

1956 Loyalty Fund Is For

This is your 1956 letter from the Loyalty Fund. We hope that every KDR studies it carefully. It shows our growth and aspirations.

It is a departure from the special letter sent out each year in behalf of the Loyalty Fund. We hope to reach more KDR's this way on this, our Golden Anniversary. We also wish we could say in December that every KDR had given something to the 1956 Fund, even if it were only a dime.

The amount of your contribution is never publicized. Your name goes up with all the rest whether you give a dime, a dollar or a hundred.

Your interest may be much greater than your pocketbook but you surely can afford something, a share in a memorial plaque, and a share in each one of the activities.

Send your contribution in TODAY.

A letter from the chairman of the Loyalty Fund for every KDR.

Dear Brothers:

The response to our 1955 loyalty Fund Appeal was very encouraging and gratifying. Our list of donors is increasing yearly. Approximately one hundred more responded than in 1954.

The Directors who are charged with the difficult responsibility of the welfare of KDR are very appreciative of your moral and financial support.

However, as in previous appeals, it is our aim to arouse interest and reach the many brothers who don't respond. The amount you give is not the important thing; it's the spirit of sharing and participating in a common goal—a greater and more purposeful KDR.

The need this year is greater than ever. This is our Golden Anniversary year. In August a fitting memorial will be dedicated at Middlebury College, scene of our founding.

Indeed, it would be fitting if every brothers' name could be added to the long list of contributors to perpetuate that "Living Monument" on other campuses. We feel sure that that was the ideal and spirit of the Founders.

That "Living Monument" is not of bronze or marble but young men, who, if inspired faithfully, intelligently and religiously will be our reward in becoming better citizens and leaders of Democracy.

Faithfully yours,

WALTER E. GARMAN, SR.

GROWTH

Typical of the plans for the growth of Kappa Delta Rho is this proposed house of Iota Chapter for which they need the concerted help of all their alumni. Five other chapters are also planning to build in the future, have started alumni drives for funds, and are making extensive plans for the future. With the increased enrollment expected in every college in the country, plans for better houses must be fulfilled if KDR is to keep its place in the future.

President Doud Moves To Portland

National president O. L. 'Nat' Doud has been appointed vice president of Consolidated Freightways, Inc. in Portland, Oregon. He assumed his new duties March 19.

Brother Doud will have the responsibility for accounting and control functions for the Portland-based motor freight company under a new assignment of management duties.

Nat has been associated with Roadway Express, Inc. of Akron, Ohio since 1951 as secretary, controller and vice-president in charge of finance. He previously served in financial and administrative capacities with Southern Express of Dallas, Silver Fleet Motor Express of Louisville and Firestone Tire and Rubber Co.

He is planning to make his home in Portland; his present address: P. O. Box 3618, Portland 8, Oregon.

PRESIDENT

Roswell W. Corwin, Rho '25, last year was elected president of the New York Chapter, American Society of Chartered Life Underwriters. Ros is a member of the Board of Trustees of Rho Chapter.

ACROSS THE EDITOR'S DESK

WHAT IS DEFERRED?

This year's freshmen class at Lafayette College is the smartest to enter the college according to Dean Hunt. That his claim is valid is also borne out by the fact that Rho Chapter initiated 21 out of a pledge class of 24. Only three failed to make the initiation grade.

Dean Hunt credits two factors for the improved scholastic work of this year's freshmen.

1. A very selective admissions process.

2. Early fraternity rushing.

Under the new system fraternity rushing is completed by the end of the first college week. This, the dean contends, allows both freshmen and upperclassmen to concentrate on their studies almost immediately with the beginning of classes.

Interesting, isn't it, in this age when one hears more and more about deferred rushing?

A RATIONAL APPROACH

The college administration at Wesleyan, through its president and acting dean of students, sharply attacked a proposal of a student committee to have a referendum on the question of discrimination. The proposal was withdrawn.

The administration felt that in the near future there would be no social organizations practicing social discrimination at Wesleyan because this would be brought about by men "thoughtfully increasing their rights as free citizens" instead of by a "dictated democracy."

So-called anti-discrimination crusades have always taken the flavor of a "dictated democracy," be they sponsored by a segment of the student body or by the administration. In one breath they say that all social organizations should be free to make their own choice regardless of national affiliation and commitments, in the other they say "do this by a certain date or get off the campus." No matter how good the cause, dictation is not the democratic way to get converts.

Kappa Delta Rho has never espoused bigotry and we hope it never will. It does, however, believe in democracy as the best possible form of government. That democracy should be honest, however, and not dictated. Much has been said by administrators against so-called discrimination; little, if anything has been said about individual freedom of choice, the heritage of every American. That a college administration attacks a "dictated democracy" is somewhat comforting in this day of confused thinking.

We are in receipt of the faculty rules governing fraternities on a mid-western campus which has just opened its doors to national fraternities. These rules state that each organization is to be free of any restrictive clauses and free to choose whatever members it sees fit, without restriction by any national body. It also states that UNLESS THE FRATERNITY SHOWS BY ITS CHOICE OF MEMBERS

THAT IT ACTIVELY PRACTICES NON-DISCRIMINATION its charter will be lifted, a two-year limit being placed for conforming to this non-conformity. Even though a fraternity on that campus finds no suitable pledge among the so-called minority groups it MUST pledge one or get off the campus. If it has no room it must make room. If someone isn't interested it must use a club—but it must get a pledge suitable to the faculty committee or lose its charter.

Many KDR's are not in favor of discrimination but the road taken by the non-discriminationists is one that is riddled with many obstacles to individual choice and freedom. The administration at Wesleyan has seen fit to protect the freedom of all by its valiant stand against any referendum on a question involving personal choice. It is dictatorship to question another man's choice of colleges, of friends, of fraternity brothers. The rational approach is to educate him well enough to trust that his choice will be as honest as possible; to dictate to him is to mistrust our own education. We have failed to educate him if we must dictate to him. Wesleyan is one college to take the rational approach.

ORDNANCE GRADUATE

Second Lt. Leo R. Knapp, Jr., of Elizabeth, N. J., recently was graduated from the Army's European Ordnance School, Fuessen, Germany.

Lieutenant Knapp entered the Army last February and completed basic training at Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md. He arrived overseas last June.

The lieutenant, before entering the Army, was employed by Scott Paper Company.

After being graduated with honors from the operating room technician course at Brooke Army Medical Center, Fort Sam Houston, Texas, Pvt. Donald J. Carter (right), Theta '54, is congratulated by Brig. Gen. James P. Cooney, school commandant.

DR. DAVID HUTCHISON Gamma Hon.

Dr. David Hutchison, Gamma Hon., and the oldest member of Kappa Delta Rho, died at the age of 89 in Albany, N. Y., on September 6, 1955. Dr. Hutchison was a widely-known authority on constitutional law and a former member of the State College for Teachers faculty.

Dr. Hutchison was professor of political science at State College from 1909 until 1936, when he retired. After traveling for four years he accepted a post as professor of New York State law and pharmacy law at Albany Pharmacy College. He was planning to return for the new term at the time of his death.

Dr. Hutchison was often consulted on questions of constitutional and parliamentary law by persons from many sections of the United States.

He was born in 1866 in Arbroath, Scotland. He was graduated from McGill University in Montreal and took degrees at Harvard University. He was ordained to the Presbyterian ministry in 1896 but later decided on a teaching career. He taught at Union College before joining the State College faculty.

Dr. Hutchison was active in Albany civic life and a past president of the Albany Burns Club and St. Andrews Society. He was also a member of the American Political Science Association, the Academy of Political Science and the American Association of University Professors.

He is survived by three daughters, one sister and eight grandchildren.
