floyd baughman to stay

President Floyd Baughman has consented to take over the remaining two year term of Director Nat Doud with the understanding that Brother Baughman will retain the Presidency for a minimum of one year of this period.

This stop-gap arrangement will serve to tide us over the current difficult period when our Assistant Secretary is in the Army and our new Directors are unfamiliar with the tasks at hand.

President Baughman has spent seven years as a National Director. (His first year filled out the term of a resigned director). In this seven year period, all but four months were spent as a National Officer . . . 3 years as Treasurer and 4 years as President.

When Floyd first entered the Presidency in 1959, affairs were generally in crisis. There was no Executive Secretary. There was no Editor for the magazine and we were in danger of losing our mailing permit. The Quill and Scroll had not been issued for about one year. Alumni interest was at a low level and defeatist talk was prevalent. No new officer knew exactly what his responsibilities were. Records were scattered. The mailing lists were obsolete. Chapters were virtually autonomous . . . many had not seen a national officer for five years or more. Fiscal policy was sporadic and inadequate. No one person in particular was to blame for this decline. Our National staff has always been an honorary unit without any recompense. The officers were scattered across the country and each had to fit fraternity duties into a rigorous schedule of job and family. The war years also had had a devitalizing effect.

Floyd's accomplishments have not been of the spectacular variety but rather the establishment of solid, basic footings from which we may hope to grow. The Treasurer's functions were reorganized and the National organization was placed on a sound financial basis. The magazine was reactivated. Several Executive Secretaries were found . . . although the absence of candidates for this post forced added responsibilities on the President much of his term. A National Headquarters was established. No longer will a newly elected officer be compelled to fly blind . . . a Policy and Procedures Manual will orient him with his new duties. Beta Alpha was established as a new chapter. Since 1958-59, we have risen in scholarship from 47th to 27th (1961). Alumni interest has been promoted in such areas as recognition awards to alumni, news letters to Loyalty Fund contributors and the beginning of our National Foundation.

Throughout Floyd's administration, lack of "hands" to do the job has been the major drawback, yet despite this, the President has successfully pulled us back into a cohesive unit. He has visited over half of the chapters himself and has worked directly with many of them.

We are lucky indeed that we shall continue to have the same dedicated leadership for even as short a period as an additional year. ■

The following two pages of this issue are devoted to brief biographies of newly elected Vice President Padgett and newly elected Directors Hill, Penman and Ports.

In subsequent issues we hope to be able to provide similar data about our new Alternate Directors and all of our elected officers, to better acquaint the fraternity at large with the caliber of leadership now in office.

A recipient of Bachelor of Science and Master of Science degrees from Cornell and Master of Business Administration degree from Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration, John has been working with the J. I. Chase Company of Racine Wisconsin. He is currently Assistant to the Director of Product Planning. As part of his Harvard curriculum he was among those selected for the overseas job-exchange program, thus seeing portions of Europe including behind-the-iron-curtain nations. John was Consul of Beta in 1958 and in 1960 was elected a National Director.

Jim, Rho's first Consul, won appointment to The American College of Teheran (Iran) where he served as instructor and treasurer for three years. Ten years in financial posts in several major corporations followed. During World War II, he was active in financial work at Air Bases in Trinidad and Greenland. In the five years from 1954-59 he was in charge of comprehensive reviews of more than four billion dollars value of U.S. operations overseas. He has travelled extensively (some 40 countries) and is now holding administrative responsibilities in the State Department.

This is no new name to KDR's for Hugh has served as National Field Secretary for the Pacific Coast (1950-51) and National Executive Secretary (1951-52). Following his term with National, he reported to Washington, D.C., where he worked with the Central Intelligence Agency. Hugh is currently teaching at a San Raphael, California High School and is focusing his attention on the fraternity's expansion along the Pacific Coast. A former Lambda Consul, he holds a B.A. and M.A. in history from the University of California.

Brother Ports has been a member of the Gettysburg College Board of Trustees since 1955. He is currently Secretary of the Board. He has been consistently active in civic projects, serving as President of the York-Adams (County) Boy Scout Council, the Conservation Society of York County, the Pennsylvania Council of Churches, the Gettysburg College Alumni Association and the York Bar Association at various intervals. Brother Ports is a member of the law firm of Fisher, Ports, May & Beers in York, Pennsylvania.

1962 CONVENTION

This will be a "first person" report based upon part-time attendance, supplemented with coverage by Rho Chapter undergraduates, newspaper accounts, minutes of meetings and other addenda. There will be several editorial asides of course, and we would hesitate to call this reportorial or editorial . . . it is a combination of both.

Your Editor was able to attend the Thursday afternoon and evening meetings and the final banquet on Saturday. We weren't around on Wednesday afternoon when registration started, but according to the newspapers, about 85 delegates had registered by Thursday. Actually, several delegations arrived early. . . the California group for one. There was a mystifying and disturbing lack of alumni participation throughout the entire Convention. I personally know of several dozen men who could have attended but did not. From the growing interest shown in the magazine and several other barometers of alumni reaction I felt that the "Let Joe Do It" attitude had been partially licked, but the Convention proved that it is still an attitude too prevalent at a time when the luxury of that feeling can not be tolerated. The "Joe's" that did attend, gained tremendously in insight and knowledge by meeting the present and future leaders of the fraternity. Those who could not find time to come, lost out . . . and in losing out, hurt themselves more than anyone else.

The Convention was formally opened Thursday morning at 8:30 A.M. President Baughman, Professor Bill McLean, Chairman of the Convention Committee and Larry Wheeler, in behalf of Rho Chapter, made short welcoming speeches. The scheduled speaker, Vice President Hertling, was unavoidably detained until the latter part of the sessions, and Director O. D. Roberts, Dean of Men at Purdue University, delivered the major opening address. His remarks

Summary of Officer Training Sessions

CHAPTER FINANCE

C. E. Snyder of Rho Chapter, in charge.

The establishment of the least complicated system of recording income and disbursements is the aim of every chapter. Training men to function within the framework of such a system is essential. Alumni supervision or control necessary to guarantee continuing records (chapter officers change yearly).

Types of entry to be recorded vary: Chapter operation, Commissary, Social and Special Projects discussed.

Hints of value: • Consider depositing portion of initiation fees not sent National in savings account • Fiscal year should end between June 30 and August 31 so all bills for school year will be covered • Best time for changeover of house officers, end of 1st term or early Spring • Annual independent audit a good investment. Best held when new officers take over.

PLEDGE TRAINING

O. D. Roberts of Eta Chapter, in charge

Several major points stressed. Fraternity history, ritual and insignia a source of inspiration and information which is indispensable. The ideals of the fraternity must be revered to adequately train new men.

Scholarship must be faced squarely. Number one objective for any college man is his education, and that implies successful academic achievement. Good scholarship means training men to measure up to their full ability and potential.

Chapter Administration. Pledge should be given thorough orientation to administrative activities. Start him in committee work and train him to accept responsibility. Officers should be elected as a result of aptitude rather than popularity.

Careful attention to Personal Development needed . . . highest standards of morality and integrity in word and deed. Social graces, table manners, dress not to be overlooked.

Collegiate climate ripe for fraternity growth, but never before has the yardstick of quality been so clearly called for.

ALUMNI RELATIONS

Ken Kramer of Zeta Chapter in charge

An alumni bulletin a major aid to good relationship. Said bulletin should not be an "everything is going great at the house" chatter column, but should be objective.

Alumni should be contacted frequently. Many are reluctant to visit the house and therefore should be invited. The suggestion that an Alumni Relations man be appointed to maintain fresh contact was of interest.

Utilization of a paid alumnus to act as house treasurer at Penn State has provided continuity in bookkeeping, besides maintaining alumni interest.

A suggestion that chapters compile an alumni directory, alphabetical, geographically and by class met with qualified approval.

CHAPTER PUBLICATIONS

Charles Beck of Rho Chapter in Charge

Rather than discussing the various types of publication each chapter may publish, this group went through a summary of the various methods of printing, concentrating on basic differences and the type of material adaptable to each process.

Economy of maintenance of mailing lists a secondary feature. Many chapters type their own labels . . . it was suggested that this be done with carbons so that more than one mailing can be handled with the same expenditure of effort.

Chapters should check with their Post Office to determine whether they are entitled to Non-Profit rates.

The Quill and Scroll came into the discussion at the end of the session. Representatives of Pi chapter asked what type of contributions were desired for Campus Report. Consensus was that most contributions were too stereotyped. Suggestions were made to "write-up" one man in the house . . . or submit humor, art, fiction . . . or a specific group activity. Emphasis was on considering chapter contribution as an integral part of the magazine, not just a duty to be fulfilled.

getting acquainted

centered around the six points listed by the National Interfraternity Conference as fraternity criteria. Following his speech, delegates split into officer training groups. These sessions were held throughout Thursday and are summarized on the central panels of pages 8, 8a, and 8b.

At noon Thursday, the group picture was taken. Dr. Samuel Shirk, Assistant to the President and Director of Admissions at Albright College opened the afternoon sessions with a speech on "The Glory That Was Greece". As this was among the few speeches given us in total, excerpts will be printed on pages 28 and 29.

The remainder of the afternoon was devoted to further officer training sessions, followed by adjournment to the swimming pool for those who so wished.

By evening of an already strenuous day, the delegates broke into regional groups and the Officers and Directors started a marathon Director's Meeting. There was a choice to be made . . . either to attend the latter or the former. In that several matters of importance had to be presented to the Directors concerning the magazine, and that in the meeting much of national interest would be discussed, my choice was practically dictated. I have no notion as to when september 1962

the regional meetings broke up, but the Director's Meeting was going full blast when I left at 11:30 P.M. Incidentally, to-be-elected Director Hill and to-be-elected Alternate Director Locke were invited to sit in, thereby gaining an intimate knowledge of the flaws and highlights of the National situation. Assistant Secretary Fox left about 2 A.M., just barely making it back to Fort Dix to attend a 5 A.M. formation (he got an hour's worth of sleep at most). I heard it broke up about 3 A.M. with some matters held over for the next day. To those of you who have never attended a Director's Meeting, it comprises a complete review of our problems and possibilities. Courses of action are resolved, where possible. Many matters (i.e. new rate cards for the publication) are handled that are of incidental value . . . (in the overall national picture), but must be cleared before further action can proceed.

Friday's sessions were dominated by the business meeting. My record of this is somewhat blurred as I was forced to return to my business appointments at nearby Emmaus and the official record of the minutes of the meeting are not

COMMUNITY-FRATERNITY-COLLEGE RELATIONS S. Joseph House of Alpha Chapter in charge

"Fraternities are everybody's business". Good news seldom is reported, but the bad is noticed by college, the public and the news papers. So fraternities have public relations whether wanted or not. The future of the system depends on the maintenance of good P.R.

The College expects good citizenship, academic achievement and cooperation. The actions and conduct of "brothers" identify the fraternity. It is wise to maintain close liaison with college administrators.

Your P.R. must be good to attract new students. Participation in student activities and student government most important.

Your Praetor is your public relations man. Should be highly respected level-headed, personable . . . NOT an exhibitionist. He must emphasize good relations . . . NOT publicity.

"Problems" should not be caused by fraternity men. "Help" projects build personal pride, but also create good community impression.

RUSHING John Padget of Beta Chapter in charge

Instead of starting the rushing season with the point of view of a fraternity man, try to orient your program to the feelings of the rushee. Advance contact, whether by means of recommendation or other ways can be important. Parents, alumni and members of a chapter are the best vehicles of advance communication. Letters to the homes of prospective pledges are one of the ways to help change anti-fraternity outlook on the part of parents.

As was true of several of these discussion groups, many other matters arose that crossed paths with other discussion groups.

SCHOLARSHIP O. D. Roberts of Eta Chapter in charge

- Fraternities must keep pace with rising university academic standards • 43% of Freshman pledges miss their grades in the first semester;—answer, more selective pledging • Houses should provide the environment most suitable for scholarship • Scholarship Chairmen should sit on the Executive Council • Awards and gimmicks can create incentive to study • Study hours should be set for Sophomore as well as Freshman classes • The Sophomore is still a trainee in the occupation of becoming a student • Make use of Senior's knowledge. Make them feel needed • Total education the result of melding of experiences. It includes social and sports activities as well • Grades most important

excerpts from the mails

prospective literary editor

"I read the Editor's Forum in the May, 1962 issue with a great deal of interest, particularly your comments on hobbies, and your willingness to print the efforts of aspiring writers, artists, or photographers.

I think that's excellent! I wish that someone had been willing to publish some of my efforts earlier in the game. It would have provided me with an enormous shot in the arm.

As you may know, I am also a technical editor in the Computer Laboratories of Hughes Aircraft Company. I would be quite willing to edit and select free lance writing samples sent in to the Quill and Scroll. Perhaps one story a month might increase your already good readability.

As a possible starter, I am sending you a favorite story of mine, one that has been rejected by the best! As I've said, my living is writing, and many other articles have been published.

But of this favorite reject of mine—I'd love to see it in print.

Curt Norris, Alpha '51
Buena Park, California

Brother Norris' offer can only be useful to us if we receive sufficient material from the brotherhood. Here's your opportunity to see your favorite writings in print . . . so let's see what talent is available. Curt's "favorite reject" is on pp. 14-15.

responds to plea for old issues

"Under separate cover I'm posting a few copies of older issues of the Quill and Scroll. I trust they may have use in (completing) your files. If I should come across any more . . . I'll send them on.

Many thanks for your gracious word in February, 1962 issue . . . about a tiny fragment of my writing.

Bless you for the quality and beauty you're getting into the Kappa Delta Rho magazine."

Rev. Carlos G. Fuller, Delta '20
Central Square, N. Y.

Page 8 of the February, 1962 issue listed the issues we are in need of. We are grateful for Rev. Fuller's contributions and would again like to request that those of you who have held onto old issues check them against this list.

new series coming

"How unique and interesting you are making our Magazine!

Wouldn't you think a fellow who is his own boss would be able to have plenty of time to write? Why get drawn into and be interested in so many things to do? Never a bored minute in all the years.

As I see it now, the articles of the proposed series could be:

- I. North West Frontier, Waziristan, and Mesopotamia
- II. India
- III. Mexico and Costa Rica
- IV. Back to India and Ceylon with the U.N.
- V. Colorado River Indian Tribes

We'll shoot for 4 or 5 double-spaced typewritten pages each, plus a short autobiographical sketch with the first article."

D. Spencer Hatch, Beta '15
Tucson, Arizona

Brother Hatch has consented to provide us with the above-planned articles from his rich and rewarding experience. They should handsomely improve our content. Start looking for the first one shortly. ■

The first Convention held at Rho convened on June 16th 1932, thirty years ago. It was the era of depression, but we might well look back at it through the eyes of 1962. This article is being written prior to the opening of the 1962 Convention and should provide a provocative study in contrasts. Excerpts are from the June and November, 1932 issues of the Quill and Scroll.

June Editorial

"Some one said recently that what this country needs most is not a good five-cent cigar, but more 'Covered Wagons.' The covered wagon has long symbolized the pioneer—the one who dared—the one who blazed the trail and made it easier for others to follow—the one who opened the gates and allowed prosperity and happiness to follow.

The people in this country are now divided into two classes, the ones who have and are 'hanging on'—and the ones who haven't and are 'hanging around.' The former in most cases were they of the 'Covered Wagons.' They blazed the trails and prospered. They pioneered and won. But they have aged and are content to rest. They look to their country for preservation, but their country can not look to them for hope and prosperity.

Where then, is the way out? Is it in the second group? Are those who are 'hanging around' ready to shoulder the burden, and are they capable? Yes and No are the answers. To many, 'Hanging Around' becomes a contented habit as long as charity enables them to exist. To a few, however, this condition is intolerable and impossible, and there are two paths that lead from it—destruction and construction. A few only of the second group have the ability to follow, or rather, lead down the path of construction. The economic urge is behind them. Are they enough to handle the job?

We think so because their numbers are increasing every June. It is the college graduate to whom we must look for 'Covered Wagon' days again.

He has the training and the ambition.
Has he the courage to dare?"

* * *

"Perhaps we need leaders—not one but many—with foresight and courage; the courage to look the situation squarely in the face; (the courage) to tell the truth regardless of how it sounds and to suggest our medicine no matter how bitter it may taste."

November Convention article

"Blessed with perfect weather . . . the twenty-first Annual Convention held on June 16 to 18 was indeed one of the most successful in the history of the Fraternity. Despite business conditions the attendance far outstripped the most optimistic expectations. Nearly 100 guests and delegates were registered and enjoyed part or all of the convention program. Through the courtesy of the college administration, most of the guests were comfortably housed in Gates Hall, Lafayette's newest dormitory.

Two sessions were found to be sufficient for the consideration of and action upon the business of the Convention. Out of these sessions came legislation which will have considerable bearing on the future of the Fraternity. Chief among this legislation was the adoption of a revised constitution and by-laws of the Fraternity under which a new form of government will be set up, similar in many respects to that of a business corporation. Among the radical changes called for in the new constitution is the substitution of a biennial for an annual convention; the creation of a board of nine directors, invested with considerable executive authority including the election of the Fraternity's officers from the directorate; the recognition of chapter alumni organizations with voting privileges at the conventions; the official creation of the office of Executive Secretary; and a change in the method of approving the petitions for charters.

The Convention also voted to adopt a new form of membership plaque—a bronze crest and nameplate of same material affixed to a wooden shield. The executive secretary was directed to prepare and distribute a "tentative" pledge manual. The delegates voted not to change the scale of taxation for the ensuing year.

A nominating committee comprising the delegates from Beta, Zeta, Lambda, Mu, Nu, and Rho made the following nominations for members of the Board of Directors. For the two-year term: George E. Shaw, Alpha '10; John O. Boyd, Rho '27; and Walter E. Burnham, Nu '27. For the four-year term: Weldon Powell, Eta '22; Neil M. Willard, Beta '18; and Franklin Everett, Mu '25. For the six-year term: Herbert R. Johnston, Beta '17; R. Merritt Rowland, Lambda '26; and Ernest G. Hill, Zeta '21. The report of this committee was adopted.

The Convention dance was the chief attraction of the program for Friday night. It was held in the main ballroom of the Hotel Easton, and music was furnished by Ken Raden's orchestra.

Seventy-three members were seated at the banquet, Saturday night, at the Hotel Easton. This affair, which was to bring the Convention to an official close, was a fitting finale to this happy week-end. Roswell W. Corwin, Rho '25, acted as master of ceremonies. Dean Arthur A. Hauck of Lafayette College, the guest speaker of the evening gained the attentive ear of all assembled while he emphasized the qualities a fraternity must stress to withstand the effects of the present educational revolution." ■

nu nationally honored

Public Relations can sum up Nu's '62 ventures. As reported in the May issue of the Quill and Scroll, (Excerpts from the Mails), the chapter was featured on a Schlitz Brewing Company radio program, designed to recognize those fraternities and other organizations whose efforts have aided the community and college world. The show resembled a "Meet the Press" format, with the Consul and Senior Tribune being interviewed by the announcer. Questions were asked about the national and local history of Kappa Delta Rho; pledgeship policies at Nu; how new men are welcomed and what the chapter strives to do with them; and which varied campus activities individuals and the chapter have participated in for the past year.

In February the chapter conducted a basketball dribble—dribbling a basketball from Nu chapter (Bloomington, Indiana) to Theta chapter (Lafayette, Indiana) on the eve of the I. U.-Purdue game at Lafayette. Twenty-four men participated, working in teams of six and running the ball in shifts. Accumulated time: 42 hours.

CAMPUS REPORT

Late in March the chapter aided the Bloomington Community Hospital Drive by running a drive-in restaurant for one day with all proceeds going to the Hospital Fund. The men of the chapter bought their evening meal at the Drive-In, urging other fraternities to follow suit. Many did . . . and the day's receipts added substantially to the Fund.

epsilon erecting new house

Last September Brother Thurman Demoss, prominent Epsilon alumnus, lawyer, and chapter advisor, announced that the chapter could expect a new $150,000 "dream" house shortly. The work of many years and the interest of the chapter alumni group have made this a reality.

Construction is now in progress, and hopefully the building will be sufficiently completed to allow Fall occupancy.

Preliminary reports indicate that the building will be "L" shaped, with the long side one half the length of a football field and the shorter wing one third the length of a football field. Styling will be colonial. The completed house will sleep fifty men; feed from 75 to 100 in a spacious dining room. A huge lounge-chapter room and the dining room will have access to a large patio by sliding doors. The current house would fit on the patio with room to spare, to give an idea of size of this facility.

Building is taking place on a plot of land opposite the main college buildings. This plot and several others will eventually comprise a fraternity row.

As soon as photographs are received, we shall elaborate on the above information with a picture story. ■

richard bruce youngest nominee to "who's who"

Richard Bruce, former Lambda consul, has been awarded a first biography in Who's Who in the West by direct nomination from the Library of Congress. At 29, Brother Bruce is the youngest man ever to be included in the selective reference. He will receive a multiple listing as an author, poet, critic and composer.

As an author and editor his published books include The First Twenty-Five Years, 1957; Variations, 1957; Twenty Centuries, with French and Spanish translations, 1958; The Contemporary Review, 1958; Minotaur, 1960; The Minotaur List, 1961; Where the Butterflies Sing, 1961; and Collected Symphonic Scores, 1962. His latest volume, Collected Film Criticism, will be released this Fall.

As a composer the following of his works have been recorded by RCA Victor: The First Victoria Symphony, 1957; Golden Flamingo Theme, 1957; Bolero de la Soledad, 1957; Prelude—Miniature Ballet, 1957; Rhapsody Victoria, 1957; Pan America Suite, 1958; Star-Born Concerto, 1958; and Blue Road Variations, 1958. ## THE ASH TRAY

by Curt Norris,
Alpha '51

a short, short story complete on the opposite page

Howdy, Bub! Welcome to the Pembroke Tack Factory, best of its kind in all of southern Massachusetts.

You're the chief 'f police? Say, when I hit that chicken yesterday, it was an accid—Oh! George Hickerson! Hev I seen him? Yup—second ago.

Purdy day, ain't it? Makes yer wonder about things. Birds 'n bees . . . life even . . . Huh? Oh, we got time t' talk. George works at the back of the plant. Puts points on tacks. Heh, heh. That's a joke 'round here.

Hev a chair. Mary! Hey Mary! Go see if'n George Hickson's out back. Ge'man here t' see him.

Sure sunny out t'day. While we're waitin' le's talk awhile. 'Bout this life thing fer instance. There's a couple ways life could'a started. Some of them scientist fellas think life started in old swamp mud as the groun' cooled from somethin' or other in the early days. Like a piece of muck made up of the right moxie at the right time, with some gas-ses here and there, alongside of sunlight started the first photo-syn-thet-ic process, and that thing come alive, bub—like you 'n me.

Photo-syn-thet-ic? That's how them plants chaw their grub or somethin'. Anyways, this here piece of mud lay there gaspin' a couple centuries or so and changed inter a plant. Like a moth inter a caterpillar or vicey versey. And from that, bub, you came about. Watch yer temper, mister, I come about that way, too.

I got a hankerin' fer this ideah. Used to be a big stink in the office and it warn't the fertilizer plant neither.

Whut say, Mary? Ya cain't find George? Wal he's gotta be here, saw him jest a while ago. You foller me mister. Take yer to 'im.

Watch yer step. Almost tripped over that lady's foot.

See thet gray and brown glass thing on thet desk over there? That's George Hickerson's ash tray. Don't know where George is, but lemme tell you about that ash tray. That's where the big stink come from. I know it looks purple, but them's the things crawlin' around in it. Look closer at them purple things. Well, hold yer nose. See them? Ugh! Not on me! Turn yer damned head. Now, wipe yer mouth and look. See? Looks pretty damned crude. Well, thet's a miracle, bub.

Yep, new life. Spawned from terrbacca juice and muck and them florescent lights in the office.

I figger it this way. When this ash tray was clean a year or so ago, nothin' could grow in it. But you know George. Well, you should know George. Long, skinny fella. He kinda let it go and it got dirtier and dirtier.

Yep, people said things, but you know George. What? Oh, I fergot. Anyways, George is a sorta rugged individual type and jest smiles in that way of hisn and the ash tray got dirtier and dirtier. Pretty soon no one said nothin' no more 'cept fer an occasional unkind remark. Now, I look at it this way. Them terrbacca juices jest kept on collectin' into a sort of muck with gases and so on and the goo got this purplish color.

Then them lights did their job. Photo-syn-the-sis. Yep. Every now and then that ash tray give, a little quiver, but we thought it were the floor shakin' or somethin'. Then this mawn'in we seen them purple things crawlin' around in it . . . look at thet one! Just burped! And George—where is George? Seems I smell his shavin' lotion. He was here just a minute ago.

Funny, them purple things. George oughta see them now.

Heh, heh. They're all gettin' long and skinny lookin'. ■

indiana university president honored

Higher scholarship was viewed at a nationally attended Greek letter organization conference at Indiana University April 7-8 as essential to the future of the American college fraternity-sorority system.

National officers of 76 Greek letter organizations, meeting at Indiana to honor its retiring president, Dr. Herman B. Wells, took a hard look into the future of the college fraternity.

Speaker after speaker in a workshop session and in discussion groups voiced the opinion that in the future the college social organizations must lead the way in the increasing student emphasis on scholarly excellence. To continue near or sometimes even below the all-men's and all-women's averages, it was pointed out, will bring increasing criticism of the national organizations and their local chapters.

"Blueprint for the Future of the College Fraternity" was the topic for the workshop that preceded the dinner recognizing the contributions to the Greek letter system by Dr. Wells during his 25 years as president of Indiana.

The National Interfraternity Conference through its president, Earl D. Rhodes, of Loudonville, N.Y., presented to Dr. Wells its highest award, the NIC gold medallion. On behalf of the fraternity men and sorority women of the country a bronze bust of Dr. Wells was presented to the University.

Speakers who lauded Dr. Wells, included Francis S. Van Derbur, of Denver, chairman of the Interfraternity Research and Advisory Council; Mrs. William Nash, of Little Rock, Ark., president of the National Panhellenic Conference, the Rev. George L. Evans, of Evansville, Ind., regent of Sigma Nu fraternity, and Ralph D. Daniel, of Cleveland, representing the College Fraternity Secretaries Association.

Toastmaster of the dinner and general chairman of the conference was Howard S. Wilcox, director of promotion and personnel of Indianapolis Newspapers, Inc.

Participants in the workshop to discuss the future of the college fraternity system were Mrs. Virginia Rogers, assistant dean of students, Indiana University, moderator; Mrs. Richard A. Whitney, of Oakville, Ont., national president of Kappa Kappa Gamma; Robert H. Shaffer, dean of students, Indiana University, and Donald R. Mallett, vice president of Purdue University and educational adviser to the National Interfraternity Conference.

In conjunction with the conference, the executive committee of the National Interfraternity Conference met at the University. ■

CHAPTER ETERNAL

*Give me no marble slab nor sculptured bronze
To keep a dead name living when my body dies.
Let all that was of passing worth go back to earth
Where all that's mortal lies.
My monument be what of living truth
Has flowed through me to other men.
So shall survive what is of lasting worth.
Thus though I die, then shall I live again.*

Twelve of the latest sixteen presidents of the United States have been members of national fraternities.

Presidents elected before Rutherford Hayes (1876-80) were of college age before the founding of social fraternities—therefore had no opportunity of membership. ■

At his suggestion I.M.C.C. bought Bioferm Corporation and he is now Manager of Glutamate Operations with Bioferm.

During the last two years he has piled up mileage by air from coast to coast, 75,000 miles in all. Last July Bill and his family—his wife, Ellen, daughter Mary Ellen (at University of Wisconsin) and son Bill, Jr.—drove from Milwaukee, Wisconsin, to their new home, seeing all the sights along the way.

The following article appeared in The Daily Illini, the student newspaper at the University of Illinois, on March 15, 1962. Ironically enough, the article, an epitaph of Eta Chapter's mascot, Caesar, was published on the Ides of March . . .

"Caesar is dead.

The final chapter of the Kappa Delta Rho fraternity mascot was written early Wednesday afternoon in the Small Animal Clinic of the University.

The tan, black-striped Brindle Dane had been a campus favorite for over eight years.

The majestic Caesar was the ranking member of the present group of campus mascots, which includes his closest friend, Curt, mascot of Zeta Psi fraternity, and his oldest rival, Ox, mascot of Theta Chi.

Many upper-classmen may remember witnessing the gladiatorial exhibitions which Caesar and Ox put on in the "Armory Arena" and at various other places around campus when Caesar was in his prime.

Although Caesar was a favorite with the students, his popularity didn't extend much further.

His usual self to the end, Caesar had been branded a "public nuisance" by the Champaign Post Office only Tuesday, after he had jumped a postman, the second in one week." ■ yet in my hands. We will continue with follow-up coverage of the Convention, where apropos, in the November issue.

Excerpts of President Baughman's opening report to the assembled convention are centered. The major results of the business meeting were passage of four amendments:

- (1) A raising of the amount contributed to the Quill and Scroll Trust Fund at initiation time. This has been $10.00 from time immemorial and the new figure will be $15.00. I might comment here that, while helpful, the additional amount is only a token payment . . . the dollar at the time the original fee was proposed was worth much more than today's inflated monetary unit.
- (2) After much discussion a satisfactory grade requirement for initiation amendment was passed. This alone will do much to raise the level of our overall scholarship picture . . . and will prove attractive to prospective new campuses and colonies chapters.
- (3) The Vice President formerly was not required to be a member of the Directorate. This loophole has now

SELECTED PORTIONS OF PRESIDENT

"Election to the National Board of Directors is the highest honor you can bestow upon a brother. In an organization of our relatively small size every director and alternate should be a working director. He should, in my opinion, be willing and able to devote at least two weeks or ten working days out of each year to the affairs of the Fraternity. This group will, in turn, elect its own officers. Undoubtedly they, the officers, will find it necessary to spend a great deal more than ten days work a year on the affairs of the Fraternity. Therefore, availability together with proven ability to perform effectively should be in the forefront in your consideration of the brothers who you elect to fill the important posts of director and alternate director."

"Two years ago at Bloomington, Indiana I explained to the delegates then assembled that National could only be strong if composed of strong chapters. I pointed out what I believed to be the four major requirements for a strong chapter.

1. Scholarship equal to or above the All Men's Average,
2. Sound chapter finances,
3. Continued cultivation of Alumni interest, and
4. Good relations with the Dean's offices at all times.

Two years of intimate association with the workings of our Fraternity have proven the validity of this observation. In scholarship—I am gratified to see that over half of our chapters were equal to or above the All Men's Average. In general most of the chapters have reported progress in the other three areas. Lest you be mislead, there remains plenty of room for further improvement."

BAUGHMAN'S OPENING ADDRESS

"Problems continue to confront us at National Headquarters but thanks to the efforts of the other officers and directors real progress has been made on many fronts during the past two years. You will soon hear the reports on the various phases of National's operations directly from the individual concerned. They have done a grand job but have undoubtedly found that like virtue, the job itself was often its own and only reward. In other words, they have found their job rewarding but at times a bit frustrating. As for myself, the greatest personal satisfaction is the realization that in some small part I may have been instrumental in channeling the efforts of Charlie Beck, our Editor, Bob Corrie, our Treasurer, and Bob Fox, our Executive Secretary, into the work of National."

"As to the years ahead—I am sure that with the continuation of the present splendid teamwork the future of KDR is bright. If I may presume to give advice to the next administration, it would be that they use every opportunity to develop the interest of our alumni. It is only through our loyal alumni that we can hope to make continuing progress. A start on alumni recognition has been made through the establishment of the Half-Century Club and through the issuance of news letters to Loyalty Fund supporters on "What Gives at National." We must have active working alumni groups in the major cities of the country. Thanks to the efforts of Brother Hugh Penman, a recent development has been made in the Southern California area. With strong active chapters, which only you can provide, and a wide-awake National aided and abetted by local alumni groups, progress on all fronts, including worthwhile expansion, will become relatively easy."

the business meeting

- been corrected through adoption of an amendment including this office in the Directorate.
- (4) The last amendment perhaps created the most controversy of all. As finally passed it is a disciplinary amendment towards chapters who get out of line. We will not have a full description of the various clauses until the official minutes of the Convention are in our hands.

To-be-elected Director Hugh Penman reported on expansion possibilities, and they are brighter than in the past. There are several good leads in at least two sub-divisions of the nation. Emphasis continues to be that we wish to remain a small to medium-sized fraternity, and that quality rather than quantity must be our goal. Nevertheless we can and should add new chapters when the time is right. There is every reason to believe that there will be good news on this front shortly.

George Shaw, our National Historian was authorized to see that the National Constitution and By-Laws be reprinted to include the additions voted by the 51st Convention.

Friday night's banquet at Marquis Hall featured a speech by Joseph E. McLean of Delta Upsilon, emphasizing the fact that fraternities must change with the times . . . that old ideas must give way to new. Following the banquet, a model initiation supervised by Jim Hertling, retiring Vice President, resulted in the formal joining of the fraternity of one Kappa chapter and three Rho chapter pledges.

Saturday morning's efforts included wrapping up the final Officer Leadership sessions and concluding the business meeting started Friday. After luncheon, an undergraduate symposium on the subject of chapter goals, was moderated by Fred Closs of Rho chapter. Director Padgett, Rho's Consul Larry Wheeler, Robert Chase, Assistant Dean at Lafayette and Raymond Howe, Theta Delta Chi Executive Secretary were panel members.

The banquet Saturday evening concluded official business. In a brief resumption of the business meeting, it was resolved that Brother George Shaw, National Historian be given the title of Director Emeritus, with all its appropriate honors. Further resolutions were introduced thanking the College and the Convention Committee for their

FROM THE TEXT OF "THE GLORY

"I am here today to present a point of view in connection with a national gathering of undergraduate and graduate fraternity men. I remind you that while I am part of overall college administration I am also part of the national fraternity system. I should like to think that both these groups are working toward the same end and in the same interest—the total education of men enrolled in American colleges."

"A recent Sunday New York Times magazine presented a rating of American Presidents by seventy-five historians. These Presidents were divided into the great, near great, average, weak, and downright poor. Agreed upon as great were Lincoln, Washington, Franklin Roosevelt, Wilson and Jefferson. Admittedly, each held the stage at a critical moment in history, but a kind of listing of what each did at that critical moment interestingly follows: each took the side of liberalism and general welfare against the status quo; each acted masterfully and farsightedly in foreign affairs; each cared about keeping the country out of war, but could be pushed only so far; each was a realistic politician who pursued the office of the presidency and was thus the chief of his political party; each left the executive branch of government stronger and more influential than he found it; each offended vested economic interests and popular prejudices; each was severely criticized but was more deeply loved than hated.

Applied to one's government, one's political party, to one's club, and to one's fraternity national organization or individual chapter, these are recognizably substantial criteria for judging a leader."

"I maintain it has happened and still is possible for institutions or groups themselves to be leaders."

"No one would deny the spiritual power exerted by the Christian church as an institution, although admittedly sometimes in the direction of negative restraint. In a quite different sense, perhaps, the labor movement of the current century has captured the imagination of millions of skilled and unskilled workers. No one would deny the leadership exerted by key industries in our modern economy. Secret societies and service clubs, as groups, likewise in their expressed or unexpressed ideals may represent the goals toward which thousands aspire. Regardless of their origins, regardless of their shortcomings, these institutions as institutions have exerted and do exert a kind of leadership in their respective areas. I suggest most emphatically that college fraternities, in their partnership in higher education in this country, have shown positive leadership in the past. They can and should continue to do so."

"Young men of college age will inevitably band together in social groups. Fraternities are one of America's peculiar contributions to higher education. Have they honestly 'lost their grip'? Must the decor of the modern fraternity house be, as one wag has put it, Early Alumni? Have we no better symbols as the outside world sees them than the paddle and the beer mug? Must the old grad ridiculously look forward to that time when we are all gathered to that Great Big Chapter Room Up There and he can offer a pledge pin to St. Peter? Without any intention of irreverence, even the Bible has undergone its revisions.

With the advent of television, radio was expected to fade into oblivion. Who would only listen when he could both listen and see? For a short time, radio station operators had a rough time, but some enterprising leaders of the industry began to devise new outlets for the radio and literally new places for it to be used.

This is the sort of thing we as fraternity men must do. Rather than getting lost in the darkness of racial corners, we must concern ourselves with the larger canvas. In defending ourselves from, we must arm ourselves for."

"Groups of this kind assembled are the hope of the fraternity, of what we sometimes call the Greek world. We must not wait for the colleges themselves to blueprint our plans for us. We must assume the leadership that has been ours by tradition and must remain ours if we are actually to remain ourselves. We must offer to the hordes of American youth we are told will be knocking at our college doors in the next decade a superior kind of fraternity for the superior kind of college students they are going to be."

hospitality and efforts. All resolutions were passed unanimously.

The final banquet had Prof. William McLean as Toastmaster, and featured New Jersey State Senator Wayne Dumont as speaker.

For the first time, retiring directors were presented with plaques acknowledging their services to National.

The 51st Convention was one of unparalleled dedication. Delegates from all but two chapters were present. There was an air of seriousness, an exceptional lack of friction and a unity of purpose—to build the fraternity; to make it bigger and better; to make it work as never before. We feel that those who attended, even if only partially, left the campus of Lafayette knowing that they had been a part of a hard-working, enlightening period in the history of Kappa Delta Rho. This was not the hail-fellow, well-met convention, complete with promotions, stunts and by-play. It was a group of concerned, thinking individuals gathered together to do as much as possible in the short time allowed to weld the fraternity into a unit working toward a common goal. ■

1962 LOYALTY FUND REACHES NEAR PEAK

During the fiscal year ending June 30, 1962, 469 members of Kappa Delta Rho contributed $3,020.02 to the Loyalty Fund. This amount was surpassed in only one other year, 1960, when $3,234.50 was contributed. This year's total represents a 27 % increase over 1961 . . . with the number of contributors increasing 23 %. The latter, perhaps, is a better indication of strength than the total amount contributed. But we are still a long way from being an active, driving force in the fraternity world, and the Loyalty Fund reflects this. Slightly over 6 % of our members are carrying the ball for the remaining 94 %. Until this ratio is reversed we can not expect or hope for great forward strides. If every member would send in one dollar, we would more than double the highest point ever reached by this fund! And there is hardly an alumnus who, if spoken to privately, could not afford a single dollar bill, once a year.

We all know the demands that tug and pull at your pocketbook and everyone else's and we know that our national officers are doing a tremendous job for little if any recompense . . . (a great portion of their duties are carried because they believe in Kappa Delta Rho). With even token financial support, they would be able to do infinitely better. As alumni, the brothers of Kappa Delta Rho are more fortunate than many . . . there are no annual dues assessed and they receive their national magazine for life. Originally they paid $10 for the latter privilege. The bill for publication of the magazine each year alone tops the loyalty fund contributions by several thousand dollars! And this is only one small function of national responsibilities. Let's dig down this year and make the 1963 report a revelation. Let's aim for 100 % cooperation. It can be done, and will be done if all of you just think a little bit about your fraternity. Mail your dollar . . . or more . . . today, while you're reading this. The coupon is on page 17.

For the fourth year in a row, Beta chapter topped the list of contributors with 81 members, both active and alumni, sending us $421.00. Eta chapter just managed to budge Beta out of first place in total amount, with 39 members contributing $422.00. You can help your chapter climb into the top five in 1963, by joining the team.

THE EDITOR'S FORUM

Your September issue has been delayed so that we might report more fully on the August 22-25th National Convention. This column is going to be chopped short to afford more space to the remainder of the magazine. The center 16 pages of this issue were sent to the printer on August 1st . . . with the covers and outside 20 pages rushed through as soon following the 51st Convention as possible. ■

NEW RATES EFFECTIVE 1963

Advertising rate cards will be revised as of the February, 1963 issue. The old rates were too low to achieve the purpose of gaining modest revenue to enable us to provide a better magazine. The old rate card was also well out of date, with obsolescent instructions. Since its issuance, we have switched from letterpress to offset, added a third color to our covers and changed column sizes. Our rate card number two will correct the above and provide for optional 4-color process cover advertising. Major changes will only be noted when we sell more than one cover position. Perhaps we should say "If" rather than "When," but there is hope now of concerted action by several fraternities to secure national advertising. In connection with this, some 5% of our readers received a preliminary survey in late August. There will be a report at a later date upon the survey's full findings, and we might add that those of you who have not answered to date should please reconsider and mail their answers in promptly. While comprehensive and not entirely advertising oriented, this survey will prove a long step forward in supplying us with an idea of our "market" and provide us with a stronger selling point in future promotion.

Preliminary results have been encouraging, with a total of perhaps 15% response anticipated. We are alternately hopeful and discouraged when a campaign such as this is tried for the first time. We were happy to see that over one out of three of the early returns decided to sign the survey, although this was optional. We were most pleased to see that 7 out of eight thought the Quill and Scroll interesting, and a huge majority felt it supplied news found nowhere else. ■
